DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 09 July 2008 has been entered.

2. Claims 26, 28-36 and 43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

It is unclear where the phrase "without tensioning the gasket after mounting to the plate" in claim 43 and the phrase "without tensioning the thin film after mounting to the plate" in claim 26 are supported in the original specification. There appears to be no disclosure of tensioning after joining that would allow a basis for the exclusion of this step in the instant claims.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 1794

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1, 26 and 43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Barringer (U.S. 5,891,295).

See Figure 1 and the abstract. The device is taken as being capable of holding a fuel cell membrane.

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 4-11 and 28-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Barringer et al (U.S. 5,891,295).

Barringer et al. teaches a frame that can hold a membrane by the use of adhesive (col. 3, lines 30-55). The instant invention claims the use of fasteners, vacuum and magnetic force to hold the membrane to the frame. Substitution of any of these known alternative holding mechanisms that are used in work holders, is taken as being within the ordinary skill of the art.

7. Applicant's arguments filed 09 July 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant continues that argue that there is support for a means with no tensioning after mounting, but does not indicate where that support is in the specification. Applicant argues that cutting an edge of material would not involve putting the film inside the frame under tension. As the film is continuous, it is unclear why all parts of it would not be under some degree of tension if an edge was pulled. Regarding the art rejection, applicant argues that film of Barringer et al. could not be used in the instant steps of the instant process of use claims. These claims are not under examination and there are not any process of using steps in the article claims themselves. In the alternate, the film and frame of Barringer et al. do not have to be tensioned. Thus they are capable of meeting the instant claim limitation of the gasket and the film not being tensioned after joining.
